

Once more we are in 'lockdown'

It can be hard to know what to do in these extraordinary times. Our worries about our children can be magnified.

Call on us for support

Our experienced PPO workers have been offering paid-for, one-to-one sessions for parents. This service is still available. We are now running online groups and meetings to fit with parents' current needs.

BUT ALSO...

As families are facing exceptional circumstances while the pandemic is keeping so many of us confined to our homes, we are now offering support via a free phone call. We will talk through your situation but can also often suggest some really good books and websites for you to use at home.

To take up this free offer, please fill in the contact form at the bottom of the homepage on the website for a quick response and to discuss what time and method of contact is most comfortable for you.

We look forward to hearing from you!
